BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has contracted with a Gulfport engineering firm for its own beach repair project.

Last month, the board voted on a recommendation by its beach committee to end a two-year U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' shore protection study which began under a previous administration, has already eaten up more $160,000 and more than three years, and would have been delayed until 1994 without additional monies from the county.

At that time, board members verbally acknowledged a recommendation by the committee chairman, John Scafide Jr., for employment of County Engineer Larry Seal and the Gulfport firm of Brown and Mitchell for the project.

Although engineering falls under the category of professional services and is not an item which has to be advertised for bids, the board delayed action on the recommendation pending receipt of some preliminary estimates and contract terms.

Bill Mitchell, representing the firm at Monday's board meeting, tentatively agreed to an hourly wage for the project with a maximum amount fixed by the board at about $43,000.

The agreement is tentative pending the resolution of some legal question by the board's attorney, Gerald Gex.

Mitchell said his firm assisted Harrison County in a similar effort and can plan the project roughly the same way, with about 1.5 miles of shoreline under construction for the duration but the rest accessible to the public.

The first step, he explained, would be a discussion of some kind with the committee to determine which sections of beach should be reconstructed first.

PLANES—Numerous people flocked to the beach Saturday to witness a flyover along the coastline from Waveland to Pascagoula. The event, part of NASA's 'Coast Encounters', originally had been scheduled for April 30 but was postponed due to weather conditions. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

Bay Council moves on festival hazard

BY D.C. HARVILL

The Bay St. Louis City Council has taken action toward eliminating a hazard at the site of the annual Beach Front Festival will be held in June.

The hazard poses a potential liability for the city, county and the property owner.

Wednesday night, the council authorized Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. to acquire a drainage easement through a privately-owned lot, where an inadequate drainage outlet has created an eight-foot deep washout beside the seawall.

In April, the Bay St. Louis Business Association, sponsors of the festival, informed the council of the debris-lined washout and asked that they eliminate the situation that created the potential hazard.

The association also approached the Hancock County Board of Supervisors seeking a solution.

Neither government body was certain whose responsibility it was to correct the problem.

To improve the visibility of musical acts performing at the festival and to reduce crowding in the streets, the association plans to erect a stage on the lot, between Beach Boulevard and the seawall, during the June 4 event.

Due to the liability presented by the washout, the stage will have to be set up in the street if the situation is not corrected before the festival, according to the association's president, Jim Thompson.

Thompson also expressed concern that children who play along the seawall might be hurt by fall into the hole.

County attorney Gerald Gex told the supervisors that, since the problem was on private property, he knew of no legal authority for them to go in and do the necessary work.

Frankiewicz Wednesday afternoon contended that it was a county problem because they had rebuilt Beach Boulevard and its drainage system after

Three Bay police officers honored with promotions

BY DENA BISNETTE

Three senior Bay St. Louis police officers have received promotions.

Police Officer Don Oco, who has been with the department longest of the three with about four years of service, has been promoted to corporal. Also promoted to corporal was Police Officer David Parker.

Detective Tom Burleson has been promoted to detective sergeant.

All three promotions were recommended by Police Chief Ray Murphy and were approved by Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr.

Murphy's letter of recommendation stated, in part, "This police department has come a long way in the last four years..."

"Currently we have three senior officers who have helped make this department what it is today through a team effort. They are excellent employees who have gone the extra mile to make this a professional and respected agency."

The advancements were also approved by Deputy Chief Mark Ohman and Captain Robert Lee.

Frankiewicz, in approving the promotions, stated, "I think the recognition is well-deserved."

The three officers were honored in a ceremony at city hall in which friends or family members pinned the new insignia on their uniforms. Parker was pinned by his fiancée, Shirley Tillman, with Beth Burleson performing the honors for her husband and Police Department Secretary Beverly Lee standing in for Oco's wife, who was unable to attend.

Parents, professionals to discuss new program for exceptional children

BY DENA BISNETTE

Parents and Professionals of Exceptional Children will meet Wednesday at 7 p.m. at Bay Junior High School to discuss plans for a summer program.

According to a parent acting as spokesperson for the group, handicapped people of any age ranging from small children to adults may participate.

The program is designed to give special students some continuity during the break in school activities at least two evenings each week.

"We want to know who's out there and where they are," the parent explained.

The program is designed partially to give the participants some physical activity, but also to provide them with practice in interacting with the community.

While the athletics are important, the spokesperson said the interaction also helps a great deal.

"One of the things we want to do is find those who are employable and help them," she said.

Adult helpers are needed as well as donations of any type of athletic and sports equipment.

For more information, contact Linda Lacoste at Bay Junior High School or Ann Ladner at 467-6254.

RSVP to lead tours of Elissa

BY DENA BISNETTE

Members of the Hancock County Retired Senior Volunteer Program are being trained to act as guides aboard the tall ship Elissa, which is at the east pier, berth B in the Port of Gulfport, until May 13.

Coast Episcopal Schools are sponsoring the ship's visit, with tours beginning every half-hour from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

RSVP Director Joann Lagasse said her volunteers will be stationed aboard the iron barque, built in 1877 and now a working museum, during tours by Coast Episcopal students.

The tour prices are $3.50 for adults, except senior citizens, who pay $2.50; $2 for children older than three years; $10 for family rate and $2 each at group rate.

Refreshments will be available.

The Elissa, built by Scottish shipbuilders and used for nearly 100 years, was a condemned ship in a Greek scrapyard when the Galveston, Texas, Historical Foundation purchased her in 1974. The vessel is now the only restored square-rigger between Baltimore, Md., and San Diego, Calif.

The Elissa has visited the Gulf Coast once before in 1987.

More information is available from Coast Episcopal Schools at 452-9442.

ON PATROL

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY

An alert resident thwarted a burglary attempt in the Chinche Street vicinity early Thursday morning according to Bay St. Louis Police Corporal Don Oco.

The department received a call at 1:29 a.m. May 4, reporting a subject, identified as a white male, attempted to reach into a window to seize a purse.

The victim was alerted by a noise in the kitchen and scared off the would-be burglar by calling for a house member to "bring my gun". The subject fled and an investigation is underway.

Hurricane Camille.

"Personally, I believe it is a county problem, but we want to work with them to solve it. The county has money levied for the construction and repair of Beach Road and a fund for bridges and culverts. It is only a city problem because we want to use the property for the festival," Frankiewicz said.

"The easiest way to get around the private property question is to buy a drainage ease from the owners. Then the county could go in and do the work," Frankiewicz said.

The council's action Wednesday night gives the mayor authority to acquire the easement and to request that the county perform the necessary work.

"I hope he (the property owner) will give us the easement free of charge, because it is his problem, too," Frankiewicz said.

Reflections On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

What are we working for?

In recent survey of the top cats of "Fortune 500," the highly successful tycoons were asked to give an assessment of their struggles and their ascent to the top of the financial world. The survey administrators could hardly have been more shocked or surprised than the rest of the world to hear that a high percentage of the tycoons thought that they had wasted much of their lives scratching, scraping and sweating to get to the top.

Of course, the greatest irony here is not that these top cats have admitted the fallacy and vanity of pursuing material goals to the detriment of intimate human relations, especially to the loss of quantity and quality time with those whom they love.

Greater is the irony that most of the lesser financial luminaries around the world lust for the same top-cat status, even as the top cats themselves lament their waste of quality living.

Most ironic of all, most little people, who have little or nothing, unashamedly think that it would be grand to get to the top where there is an abundance of money, luxuries, prestige and power. Even if they can't make it to the top, the least they want is all the possessions, luxuries and benefits of upward mobility.

In relatively few cases do we see or hear people clamoring after Jesus as he challenges us: "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." (Matthew 5:3)

We do not see many people beating a path to the kingdom of God, certainly not in those terms which Jesus lays down for us. Obviously, if attaining the kingdom of God requires them to distance themselves from worldly goods, too many people find pursuit of that kingdom little to their liking.

What continues to attract and intrigue people is the top of the corporate and/or financial earnings ladder which holds out the surplus and luxury of all the goods of the kingdom of the world.

Recently, a major league baseball player showed the lengths to which some people will go in pursuit of the material kingdom. He has an annual contract worth $1.4 million; yet, he is extremely upset and envious because a teammate has a better contract.

If you think that's bad, consider the fact that this same major leaguer charges poor fans $10 for his autograph. Where did all the Musials, Mayeses and Mantles go? Willie Mays, who found as much glee as anyone on the baseball diamond, once remarked: "I can't believe that they actually pay me to play this game."

It is difficult to fathom the vast difference between so many superstars of yesteryear who were people-oriented and many superstart of today who are almost wholly money-oriented. Perhaps it goes with the greed of today's inflated salaries which surpass even the highest bygone salaries by 10, 20 and even 30 times.

Then, again, it may be simply symptomatic of an ever-growing disease, sometimes called avarice, which poisons the wellsprings of everything human in society and of each of us in particular.

Further complicating the matter, some of those who should be declaiming the beatitudes as advised by Jesus in Matthew 5, are living lavish lifestyles in direct contradiction to the spirit of Jesus' teachings. Some televangelists and some pastors of churches seem to be pursuing mammon more than God.

Whether shepherds or sheep, we cannot afford to be slaves of mammon. Supposedly, we are working for a decent share of income to support ourselves and our families in a reasonable way. That is all well and good, as long as we are working hard toward God's kingdom.

Pentecost Sunday, May 14, will be an exceptional day for St. Rose de Lima Parish in Bay St. Louis. It is the day chosen by Holy Spirit Missionary Sisters in Bay St. Louis to tell their story of gratitude to the good people of the parish and in a broader vein to the people of the entire community.

Worldwide, the Holy Spirit Missionary Sisters are celebrating their 100th anniversary. Bishop Joseph Lawson Howze of the Diocese of Biloxi will be the main celebrant at the Mass of Thanksgiving.

Looking back over the nearly 75 years since they first arrived, the Sisters were warmly welcomed by the early parishioners at St. Rose de Lima, and the Divine Word Missionaries who staffed the parish.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

It made my heart feel good when Hubbard's Hardware was among the businesses honored at the Hancock County's third Salute to Business breakfast.

The event was sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

I know Mrs. Dorothy Hubbard and her sons who continue the business were very happy to be recognized after so many years of service to Waveland.

I received my first start in the business world as an employee for Mrs. Hubbard and her husband, the late R.G. (Manny) Hubbard while a sophomore in high school, working at their lumber and hardware company after school and during the summer.

Mr. Hubbard started with a sawmill on Third Street, Waveland, now called Daniel Street, cutting rough lumber, eventually adding dressed lumber and builders hardware.

He then opened a hardware store on Blaize Avenue or Third Street, as some people call it, opposite the depot in Bay St. Louis. (A paint store is there now). He continued to sell lumber from the Waveland location.

In 1954 Mr. Hubbard decided it would be better to combine the businesses in one location, so he constructed a store at the present location.

I helped set up the new store on Nicholson Avenue, then, since I was number one on the draft list for Hancock County, joined the Army when the store opened.

The four years I worked for Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard taught me a lot about the business world. And the knowledge I gained from them still comes into use in my present position.

Another I feel I should recognized is Mrs. Louise Lynch, owner of Waveland Drug Store. I knew Mrs. Lynch and her late husband Mr. Harry Lynch when they began operating the store in 1947.

When I was coming up, Waveland had very few permanent residents and everyone knew each other.

I purchased many a soda and ice cream cone from the drug store.

Along the industry side it was good to see Gulf Coast Fabrication, located at Port Bienville Industrial Park selected.

It sure was good news when Dan Mortimer announced his firm had just secured contracts amounting to $15 million and will mean increasing employment over the next two years at his Hancock and Pass Christian plants.

Many of you may not know it, but, Bay St. Louis has the world's first and largest manufacturer of colored drum stocks.

The Bay St. Louis industry Hot Sticks Manufacturing, owned by Kevin Pokallus and Chris Torgerson, was among the businesses recognized at the Salute.

The business, established in 1980, continues to grow and we are happy they received such an honor.

The John C. Stennis Space Center received the 1989 Award of Excellence.

The space center has been very important for Hancock County and we are glad the agencies at the facility were recognized.

I would like to also comment about the large number of persons who attended to salute Business and Industry.

This was the third year for the event and it was the best yet.

We do have to offer congratulations to Buz Olsen, Port and Harbor director, and Libby Roland, chamber executive director, for preparing a very good program.

It kind of tickled me to hear and read some of the reports about the problems of ballot counting in Biloxi's primary elections Tuesday.

I can well remember the time when all ballots were hand counted. It took many hours to do the chore and it was done in a very professional manner.

Machines have made it easy for us today and we quickly forget how to do things the old way.

The week of May 7 is Extension Homemakers Week and the 75th anniversary of the Smith-Lever Act which established the Cooperative Extension Service.

Several events are planned by Darlene Underwood, home economist and Lee Taylor, county agent.

Among the events during the week will be on Monday an all-day open house at the Extension Office on Dunbar Avenue. Taylor will conduct a home gardening workshop at the City-County Library at 2 p.m.

A mini-health fair will be held by the homemakers and is co-sponsored by the Waveland Medical Clinic. There will be free screenings for cholesterol, blood pressure, glaucoma and weight.

On Friday, a cultural arts fair, featuring works of homemaker club members will be held at the Bay St. Louis Library meeting room.

The display will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and there will also be some working demonstrations.

It sounds like it will be a great week for the Hancock County Extension Service.

VIETNAM VETS MEMORIAL—Legislators who joined Governor Ray Mabus, seated, for the signing of the bill providing funds for a Vietnam Veterans Memorial on the Gulf Coast included Senator Gene Taylor and Rep. J. P. Compretta, both of Bay St. Louis. The bill allows counties and cities to contribute to the memorial.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Diamondhead resident feels supplementing club a waste

To the Editor:

I wrote to your newspaper recently, and although I asked you to allow me to elaborate, space limited much of my elaboration. I ask for your indulgence, and offer the following.

I bought my first piece of property in Diamondhead in 1974, after my fifth trip over. The reason it took so long; the whole concept was too good to be true. Dues were $10 per month. The area was almost primitive. The development, as we bought it, was a Utopia, our dream come true.

The idea of moving into a country-club atmosphere with a beer pocket was overwhelming. Property in Diamondhead sold rather easily and at reasonably low prices. Quite a number of New Orleanians came over as this appeared to be a perfect place to retire.

Later on, and I'm speaking of eight to ten years later, our country club was "discovered" by people with other ideas.

Our population grew rather rapidly; and gradually two major thoughts, with complete different concepts emerged.

The word country club gets stuck in one's throat very quickly when one of our more affluent members uttered these words. I quote, "The majority of the property owners of Diamond-head know that no country club makes money, and I'm sure they don't mind supplementing the cost of maintaining it."

Well, I, for one do. To supplement the cost, cost $200,000; and that's a huge gulp.

The way I see it, we are a small community that happens to have two very nice golf courses. We receive enough income to take very good care of them, and we do, and we should. If it were not for them, there would be very few nice houses build in the forest.

Taking that income and supplementing the country club is sheer waste. We have other areas needing immediate attention.

As our permanent residents increase, our golf course availability to outside players will present some problems. These problems can be worked out with understanding and cooperative members. When each outside four-some represents $150 revenue, we have to be tolerant and expect some sacrifices.

There are those who are unwilling to sacrifice. If outside income was decreased drastically, our members would have to foot the bill. I would rather not.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Senator
Thad Cochran

Students urged to take advantage of state's opportunities

Senator Thad Cochran urged students to take full advantage of the educational and job opportunities now available in Mississippi.

Speaking at Northwest Mississippi Community College, the senator said: "Mississippi is on the move. We have more opportunities for better jobs than ever before. From Yellow Creek to Bay St. Louis, from Senatobia to Natchez, good things are happening all over Mississippi."

In addition to speaking to students and faculty at the college, Cochran also met with college administrators to discuss the school's needs and vocational education legislation pending in Congress.

He is co-sponsor of the Tech Prep Education Act, to provide grants to secondary schools and community colleges such as Northwest Mississippi and encourage a comprehensive, coordinated curriculum of math, science and technology courses.

Thursday and Friday, in Jackson and Biloxi, the Education Subcommittee on which Cochran serves will hold hearings. The Jackson hearings will focus on Star Schools program, involving television and satellite teaching, and Chapter I programs for economically disadvantaged students. The Gulf Coast hearings will concern the Tech Prep bill and vocational education.

Monday afternoon in Cleveland, Cochran participated in Senate Agriculture Committee hearings. The panel, meeting on the campus of Delta State University, heard from farmers and agricultural spokesmen in preparation to drafting the omnibus farm bill in 1990 that will govern federal farm programs.

FROM THE CAPITOL

By Governor
Ray Mabus

What do you think about education in Mississippi?

What are the problems, and how can we solve them?

That's what we need to know from you over the coming months.

Last week I wrote about how we will be reaching out to hear what you have to say about education in Mississippi. Our goal is to develop a package of new education reforms what will prepare our state for the 21st Century just 10 years away.

There are some of the ways we plan to get input from you:

During the months of May, June and July, my office will conduct a series of meetings and interviews with education and community leaders.

In August, I plan to release a report setting forth goals and objectives in education. These goals will attempt to identify areas that must be addressed—and the time in which we must act—in order for our people to be competitive.

During August and September, my office will again meet with people from throughout Mississippi. We will hold a series of town meetings to hear what you have to say about education.

Finally, in October I will announce the results of this effort: A new education reform package to be voted on by the Legislature.

Some new and exciting ideas are sure to come out of this effort. But what's most exciting about it is that we know education reform works. We've seen it work before.

Since the Education Reform Act of 1982 was passed:

- * Student test scores have improved.
- * College entrance scores have improved.

- * Kindergarten programs have been put into place in every school district in the state.

- * Teacher aides have been provided for the first three grades.

- * An improved system of school accreditation has been put into place.

- * Teacher pay has increased.

- * New procedures for teacher certification, personnel appraisal, staff development, training of administrators and teacher education have been put into place.

This is just the beginning. There is so much more we can and should do.

I invite you to write me with your thoughts, ideas and suggestions on education: Gov. Ray Mabus, P.O. Box 139, Jackson, MS 39205.

We can't afford business as usual. Our economic future depends on educational excellence. We must act now. We need a new education reform package that will equip us to achieve education excellence and economic competitiveness.

IN CONGRESS

By Representative
Trent Lott

Wayport—the next logical step

U.S. Sen. Trent Lott, R-Miss., has introduced legislation which would establish a 15-member commission to examine the feasibility of suitable locations for remote transfer airfields, coined 'wayports' by the Federal Aviation Administration.

"If there is a way to relieve airport congestion, I want to explore it," Lott said. "This could be the answer."

Wayports were conceived by Jim Sheppard, manager of the Federal Aviation Administration's airports district office in Orlando, Fla.

Sheppard advocates building several wayports strategically located near, but not too close to, major metropolitan areas.

These sites would serve primarily as 'switching-points,' not as destination or points of origin. These wayports would ease pressure on heavily-trafficked, existing airports, according to Sheppard. Passengers who now change planes in big-city hubs, would change at wayports instead, alleviating congestion, he adds.

"With the projected number of air travelers expected to increase dramatically in the 1990's, steps must be taken now to alleviate airport congestion," Lott said. "The Wayport Development Act of 1989 will help us find the solution."

Mississippi is one of the states being mentioned as a potential wayport site.

By Dena Bisnette

Earlier this week, I was reminded how old I am by being reminded of a war some people still call a "police action." I had gone to visit Our Lady Academy in Bay St. Louis, where several local men who served in Vietnam were guest lecturers at a history class. I was just coming in to snap a quick photograph, with the talk already in progress. As I walked into the classroom, veteran Henry Cook asked the students if any of them remembered who Lt. Calley was.

None of those eighth graders responded with anything other than a blank stare.

I stopped with the door half-way open. It took me a moment to realize how young those students were and how long it had been since Calley had been a news item.

These kids didn't grow up with Vietnam on the T.V. news every night at dinner. It was just like the day a high school student came into the office dressed as a hippie, explaining that it had been 60s Day at school; they'd even staged a sit-in.

"What were you protesting?" asked my The Sea Coast Echo colleague, D.C. Harvill, who considers himself a latter-day ecology activist.

The student didn't know sit-ins were supposed to be in protest of anything.

Now, the 1960s were a little before my recollection because the world of a child, until he reaches about 12, is somewhat limited.

But I do remember Vietnam, because Dad liked to watch the television news.

Vietnam never touched me personally. I had already moved where I had no relatives other than my immediate family, and if I had any cousins or whatever who went there, I never heard about it.

There were kids I knew with older brothers or cousins who went. It certainly touched them.

To me, it was just something on T.V. night after night, something I got tired of seeing so much.

I also remember when the servicemen came back.

People in a small town talk too much because they have nothing better to do. Being in a small town helped a few veterans get old jobs back, but most just got talked about.

When one of the jobless ones got into trouble, I remember what people said: "Well, he's a little weird. He went to 'Nam, you know."

Even in the early 1980s, when I went to university, no one had told the veterans "thank you for serving" or "welcome home" or anything good yet.

The oddest thing to me, as a teenager, was how veterans of World War II or the Korean Conflict could be good and Vietnam-era veterans could be somebody you were advised to avoid.

It gave me a disrespect of the modern military that passed only after I moved to the Gulf Coast, then met and became friends with a few seabees, U.S. Navy people from Stennis Space Center, National Guard members and Keesler Air Force Base people. Many are my classmates at University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park.

I have also worked with one or two Vietnam vets. They're people, like anybody else.

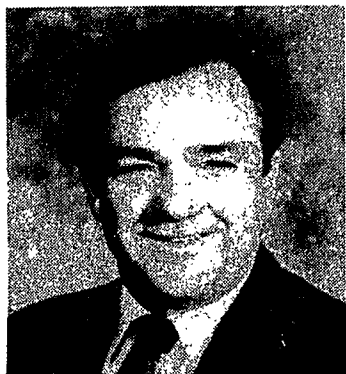

That's why I think it's so important that the Mississippi Vietnam Veterans Association is trying to raise money for a fitting memorial to these people. It's time to treat them like veterans of the other wars, the ones this country took pride in even while they were going on.

It's just a shame that the veterans themselves are the ones who had to get things started on this project.

When the Moving Wall, the portable version of the national memorial, came to the Gulf Coast, I didn't go out of my way to see it because I knew I would not have recognized one name of one deceased veteran listed on it.

But I know the names of the living veterans who reside and do business in my community, and I see with them that the Mississippi memorial drive means times are changing.

It means that somebody is finally willing to say "Thank you for serving."

"Safe Tanning—Sun and Skin: Is it Worth the Risk?" will be the topic of this month's Family Health Focus program at Hancock Medical Center. It is free of charge and will begin at 7 p.m. on Thursday, May 11 in HMC's cafeteria.

Dr. Ed Davidson, oncologist on staff with Hancock Medical Center, and Madonna Rauxet, owner of Just For You in Bay St. Louis will be the featured speakers. They will address such questions as:

How much sun can my skin handle without wrinkling?

If I'm afraid of looking older, what can be done to camouflage tiny lines?

I love to fish, swim and ski. What is the best way to protect my skin and still enjoy water activities?

Can the diminishing ozone layer really affect my health?

In addition, Ms. Rauxet will demonstrate appropriate skin care techniques for all ages and will offer free samples to those attending. Also, each participant may register to win a free facial from Just For You.

Dear Friends of District Four:

I would like to extend a very sincere thank you to all my loyal supporters who had the confidence to send me into the second primary. Words cannot explain the gratification I feel for this tremendous vote of confidence you have given me.

As we prepare for this run-off election our optimism is high. A review of the results of the first primary clearly shows that the majority of the people of district four voted for a change.

In order to make the final step and complete our mission of change, we must remember the most important thing of all, and that is on May 16th, if you want a change in district four, I kindly urge you to please return to the polls once again and vote. Without this our mission cannot be accomplished.

We will be making several phone calls during the week reminding you of this most important date and urging you to please help us complete this final step. If we do not get a chance to call you personally, please accept this letter as our sincere solicitation of your support.

Thanks Again!

PHILIP WILLIAMS
WARD 3 SUPPORTERS:

In retrospect, it saddens me to look at these facts: Three town meetings were held to discuss economic, social and political issues in our city. Thomas Farve attended one forum and Charles Johnson attended two.

I attended all forums in addition to many organizations that were interested in this city's direction. Approximately 600 votes were counted on election day. Approximately 10% of Ward 3 voters (collectively) attended the town meetings, less than 5% were black. This clearly illustrates the need for community cohesiveness and awareness.

I am not bitter in the least, however, I am hurt. Hurt because my heart and soul is the backbone of each and every issue I stood for then and stand for now. Educational background, community achievements, family disposition, oral communication skills and political involvement apparently are not tools of the trade.

I thank you for your support faith and prayers. This campaign has been a meaningful experience. It explains why Ward 3 is in the state that it is in. Votes are cast based on friendship, family and one other useless commodity I dare not mention.

If I can be of any service individually or collectively, physically or mentally please call Philip Williams at Williams Pit BBQ 467-9043.

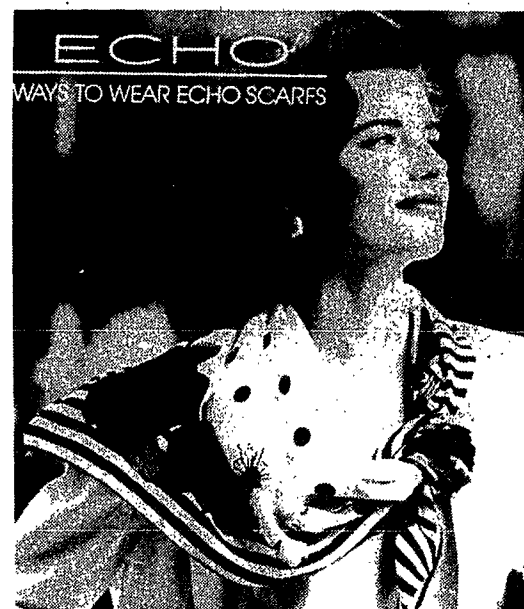

My God bless us all.

Mississippi company reaps benefits of NASA technology

North Mississippians are seeing benefits of America's space program first-hand thanks to a cooperative agreement between a Calhoun City-based company and NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center in Hancock County.

Using technology developed by NASA, Medical Concepts Inc. will soon be mass producing a hydraulic commode seat lifts which will benefit thousands of the nation's elderly and arthritic patients in addition to creating 150 to 200 new jobs in the state over the next year and a half.

In its eighth month as a company, Medical Concepts is already producing a three-wheel electrical scooter for the infirm. The 25-member organization is an off-shoot of three-year-old Mississippi Durable Medical Equipment Co., the world's largest manufacturer of recliner lift chairs also headquartered in Calhoun City.

Wendell Blount, president and chief executive officer of both companies, said production for the commode seat lifts could begin as early as three months from now. Before production starts, however, component part molds must be made which possibly means more work for Mississippians as there are several companies in the state which specialize in that process.

The reason Medical Concepts sought NASA's assistance was because of a hydraulics problem associated with their original lift concept. Although the seat lowers and raises just as the recliner chair, its design had to incorporate water hydraulics which could be tied into the regular commode water supply.

After contacting NASA's Technology Utilization office at Stennis, Sverdrup Technology engineers, with the assistance of Methodist Rehabilitation Center in Jackson, worked together to come up with an innovative hydraulics system which is significantly cheaper to produce than existing commercial hydraulics systems of the same capacity. Sverdrup Technology Inc. is NASA's technical support contractor at the Stennis Space Center.

Henry Lackey, vice president of Medical Concepts, said, "We had the right idea, but we could not produce it so that it would be economically feasible." This breakthrough, however, will enable the hydraulic commode seat lift to be manufactured commercially and sold at an affordable price to home users on fixed incomes as well as to health care institutions.

Lackey added, "We came to NASA with a hydraulics problem, and they graciously consented to help. Because of their engineering expertise and assistance we now have a product we can market."

The cooperative effort was actually one between NASA, Medical Concepts and the Stennis-based Mississippi Technology Transfer Center which is part of the state Department of Economic Development.

Bob Barlow NASA's Technology Utilization officer at Stennis, said of the cooperative effort, "This is the way NASA and the Mississippi Technology Transfer Center would like all of their technology transfer projects to turn out. The success of the project points out the wisdom of taking a dual approach to industrial development.

"While uncovering opportunities to bring new industry to the state is vital to Mississippi's economic growth, it is equally important to work with existing industry, such as Medical Concepts, to help them become more competitive and to create new products through the use of technology."

Mason Chamberlain 'High Tech Business of the Year'

Mason Chamberlain Incorporated, the operating contractor of the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant, has been recognized as the 'Mississippi High Tech Business of the Year' by the Mississippi Business Journal.

The award was presented recently at the Advanced Manufacturing Technology Conference in Jackson.

Mason Chamberlain Incorporated (MCI) was nominated in the Large Company Category by Pearl River Community College.

Since a cooperative effort between the U.S. Army and MCI made this award possible, it was accepted on behalf of the Army and MCI by Richard Purcell, MCI's vice-president and mobilization project manager.

The Mississippi Business Journal will feature in-depth articles about all of the award winners in the July edition of their publication.

The conference, sponsored by The Institute for Technology

Development, featured speakers on defense and related areas to describe developments and opportunities in manufacturing modernization.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

"Spring is bustin' out all over" as the old song, true if a bit ungrammatical, goes—and all over the place, and all our area supermarkets, you can see evidence of Spring's bounty.

There are artichokes, big and beautiful, on special at Winn-Dixie; yellow-gold summer squash at almost give-away prices, and all sorts of lettuce and other salad greens and so on.

And there's pork aplenty, lean and mostly boneless, a far cry from the heavy cuts of yesteryear, offered at special prices—for instance:

Winn-Dixie offers boneless whole pork loins (7 to 9 lb. avg.) at special prices, sliced free—along with lean boneless pork loin chops and such. National offers sliced pork loin half or rib half, along with pork chops; and Jitney Jungle "gets into the act" with boneless pork loin also—so, "let 'em eat pork!" Let's cook:

COLD PORK LOIN

(Shall we take advantage of the savings and try something a bit out of the ordinary, for a family supper on a hot afternoon, or for a "company" buffet supper?)

1 1/2 lb. pork loin rubbed generously with thyme and dry mustard

1/2 cup dry sherry
1/2 cup soy sauce
2 Tbsp. ground ginger
3 cloves garlic, pressed
Orange slices (optional)

8 oz. apple or currant jelly
1 Tbsp. soy sauce
2 Tbsp. dry sherry

Combine the half cup of sherry, the soy sauce, ginger and garlic, and pour over the roast. Marinate overnight.

Remove the meat, reserving the marinade. Bake at 325 degrees for 25 minutes per pound or until your meat thermometer reaches 175 degrees, basting often with the marinade.

Melt the jelly over medium heat, then add the additional soy sauce called for, along with the additional sherry to make the glaze, mixing well. Cool.

Place the pork roast on a rack in a shallow pan, and spoon the glaze over. As the mixture runs off into the pan, keep basting to build up a coating. Slice, and serve cold, garnished with orange slices. (From Louisiana Entertains)

***

And, here's a less involved, but ever-so-tasty recipe, using the sliced loin chops. Here's:

PORK CHOPS IN RED WINE

8 boneless loin chops

Pepper, salt to your taste

1 Tbsp. butter

6 green onions, finely chopped (both white and green parts)

1 cup dry red wine

Basil, thyme to your taste

Sprinkle the pepper and salt on the chops, and place in a heavy (I use cast iron) skillet with the butter, which you have brought to a good sizzle. Pan fry quickly on both sides till brown, then place in a casserole, sprinkle with the onions, and splash the wine over. Sprinkle with the basil and thyme—just a bit of each, please! Cook, covered, at 350 degrees for a half hour, adding more wine if you need to. (Four servings). I like to serve this with rice.

And, let's not forget the chickens on special. National featuring chicken parts at special prices, through Tuesday, also leg quarters, in 10-pound bags, are offered at Winn-Dixie through Wednesday, with a 20-pound limit purchase. Leg quarters, in five-pound bags, are also an item at Jitney Jungle. So, let's cook up some chicken!

For a quickie, tasty dish, I like to stuff the cavity of leg quarters with a prepared stuffing such as Stove-Top, or with my own bread-onion-and-such stuffing, then bake, basting with butter or margarine as needed. I also like to use the leg quarters in chicken-and-spaghetti dishes.

And, I like to shower the wings with barbecue sauce, then cook them to a turn. Also, I like to mix all the parts together for stewed chicken or for baked chicken and so forth.

***

And, let's not forget the fresher than fresh fruits and vegetables available just now. Summer squash and zucchini are featured at special savings at Delchamps, Winn-Dixie and Jitney Jungle. And here's:

ZUCCHINI-YELLOW SQUASH CASSEROLE

2 lbs. squash

2 onions, thinly sliced

2 medium tomatoes, thinly sliced

6 Tbsp. butter or margarine

1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Pepper, salt to taste

Saute the onions in the butter or margarine until pale yellow, then add the squash (zucchini and yellow crook neck). Cook for five minutes, add the tomatoes and pepper and salt, cover and cook for five minutes more.

At this point, you may reduce the heat and cook until tender for approximately 20 minutes or so sprinkling with the cheese, or you may transfer the squash to a casserole, sprinkle with the cheese, and bake at 375 degrees until browned, approximately 45 minutes.

You can get this all together a day ahead of time, and cook it up when you're ready, if you wish.

Pre-measurement of crops available through ASCS

Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS office, says farmers who use pre-measurement service before planting their spring crops will be guaranteed that their field sizes are accurate for the 1989 program year.

"Pre-measuring assures farmers that they are in compliance with this year's acreage reduction requirements," Gennin said.

To be eligible for full program benefits, farmers must report their planted crops, acreage conservation reserve (ACR) and other acreage. ACR is cropland removed from production and put into conserving uses under the 1989 farm programs.

"We recommend pre-measurement service because it helps assure accurate reporting, and eliminates worry over the loss of farm program benefits," he said.

ASCS offers pre-measurement at cost. The service includes measuring, referencing and marking out fields with stakes before planting.

Farmers are required to plant within the stakes that are placed when the land is pre-measured.

The ASCS official said pre-measuring helps producers plan the amount of land to devote to ACR and planted acreages of program crops.

Farmers may request this service at their county ASCS office.

President to speak at Alcorn

President George Bush will deliver the 118th commencement address at Alcorn State University, Lorman, on Saturday, May 13 at 11 a.m. The commencement exercise will be in the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Complex on the Alcorn campus.

Approximately 350 candidates are expected to receive degrees during his spring's commencement. Degrees will be awarded on the associate, baccalaureate and master's levels.

Fr. Ken Ramon-Landry of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church and Hancock County Sheriff's Department Deputy Rita Blaize-Watson are featured in a three-part program being aired Sundays by WLOX-TV 13.

The two have filmed three half-hour, uninterrupted segments on occult awareness for "The Living Word," which is sponsored by the Catholic Diocese of Biloxi.

One segment of the program airs today at noon and will be repeated at 11 p.m. Sunday.

In one segment of the program, they will interview a local teenager formerly involved with a satanic cult operating on the Gulf Coast, Blaize-Watson stated.

Ramon-Landry and Blaize-Watson have both spoken at some of the local schools to promote awareness of the dangers of the occult.

The June 12-16 camp, for boys entering grades 1-6, will be held from 8 a.m. to noon. Young men in grades 7-12 may enroll in a June 26-30 camp.

Both camps will feature night games, highlight films of camper and Metro Conference games, air-conditioned dormitories, planned meals and use of the USM pool and other recreational facilities. The fee for full-time campers is $185; commuters pay $135. Teams of five or more pay $160 per person, and fees include insurance and awards.

Approved by the Mississippi High School Activities Association and the Mississippi Pri-

YELLOWSTONE

Last summer the U.S.'s oldest national park was scorched by unrelenting drought and fires. But perhaps more devastating than this natural disaster, some critics would say, were the policies of the Reagan administration.

"Frontline" with Judy Woodruff at 9 p.m. Tuesday, May 9 on Mississippi ETV, looks at how former President Reagan's Interior secretaries James Watt and Donald Hodel may have altered the landscape of the Yellowstone Park area more dramatically than the fires that ravaged it last summer.

This program examines the impact of eight years of accelerated development of minerals, timber and tourism on America's most famous wilderness.

DISCOVERY MAY END OBESITY

National Dietary Research, an organization committed to the research and development of nutritional solutions to world-wide health problems, reported in a Washington D.C. press release, "Obesity may be controlled naturally with a new type of pill" discovered by accident. In studies scientists noted patients receiving an ingredient in what is now being called FS-1 all lost weight, while body weight in control groups remained constant. Scientists say the mechanism behind the weight reductions is due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calorie rich dietary fats.

In a comparative study by NDR, whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in recent medical and nutritional journals, FS-1 was found to be the most effective treatment for obesity and the most acceptable to patients, because FS-1 contains only natural ingredients recognized as safe. FS-1 and diet plan are available to the public through pharmacies, listed below.

Weaver helps revive, improve upon old craft

BY DENA BISNETTE

Now through the end of May, the weaving of Cynthia Crull is on display at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library on US-90.

Crull, who has four large looms and one small one in her home studio on Sycamore Street, is best known locally for the purses, towels and tops she has sold in local craft shows. However, her hand-woven items actually range from clothing to stuffed toys.

She calls her work "Blue Sycamore Handwovens," a name which came to her when she moved to Mississippi several years ago with her husband, and purchased a blue house on and Helen Currie-Caire of Pass Christian, give weaving lessons. Crull feels more comfortable working one-on-one with her students, so she does not give large group classes.

"I enjoy teaching but I prefer one-to-one because people learn at different speeds," she said.

"I don't know what it is that attracts people to weaving. I don't know just what it is that got me, but I just knew I wanted to learn to weave with a big loom."

Crull had already learned several other types of stichery and had done some weaving with a backstrap loom, a simple apparatus descended from the looms used by some American there have been a lot of people making a living at it. Some do production weaving and sell it, and some do one-of-a-kind items."

Some weavers are afraid to cut the cloth they have woven, said Crull, who cuts hers to make various clothing items.

She finds that finishing the edges with a serger helps, because the handwoven cloth unravels more easily than machine-made cloth because the weave is not as tight. Sergers, once only available commercially, provide an overcast stitch to prevent unraveling.

The clothing Crull sews from her handwoven fabrics range from evening wear and suits to has also taught.

"A lot of things go into making a single piece of the fabric. Sometimes you get surprised. You think it's going to look one way and you get something else."

One of her favorite types of weaving, though, is ecclesiastical weaving. One example of this type of work, which includes anything from priest's stoles and altar cloths to large wall hangings, is a banner she has done for Christ Episcopal Church.

"I really enjoyed doing it. It's a type of tapestry and it really is all done on the loom," she said. "It was very exciting to see it developing."

Crull is active in the church and is currently a member of its vestry, chairman of the arts committee and founder of the annual spring "working craft fair." The banner was the result of a decision by a group of members who wanted something special for Christ Episcopal, for which Crull said she "sort of volunteered" herself.

One thing she has never woven is a large rug, which she wants to do but has not found the time. Instead, she does clothing in cottons and rayons to fit the humid coastal climate.

She also likes to experiment with new materials. Once, she and another weaving enthusiast tried spinning the fur of a Samoyed on a wool core. It made good thread, as will any type of fibers that grab onto each other firmly, but she has not tried weaving it yet.

Crull is also moving from her favorite neutral colors, which have become almost a trademark, into brighter colors.

She has kept earlier examples of her work, and likes to see the progress she has made in a craft she considers useful, versatile and relaxing. In addition to those qualities, she said, she wants people to know what draws her most to weaving.

"It's fun," she said.

Visits to Crull's home studio or lessons may be arranged by calling 467-9310.

Crull has been weaving since 1974, when she started learning at Arizona Western College in Yuma, Ariz.

Since then she has taken classes and attended workshops in California, Louisiana, Wisconsin, Texas and Mississippi. She has also become an active member and current president of a Gulf Coast group, Dyed-in-the-Wool Weavers and Spinners Guild.

The guild is a reflection of the popularity of weaving and spinning, with about 25 members. Nearly half are actively weaving, exhibiting and selling their work now.

Two guild members, Crull

When she decided to try her hand at the larger looms, she found her instructor learning along with her.

Crull is now learning to spin the thread for the cloth she weaves.

"Weaving is an old-fashioned art but it has been going for 50 or 60 years as a revised art form," she said, explaining that a "revised" art form is one that has been improved upon as it was being brought back.

In weaving, for example, the heavier threads once used have been replaced by finer materials more suitable for clothing and other items.

"For the past 10 to 15 years, light summer tops.

Many of her household items, however, can be woven in a single piece. She makes many towels, napkins and other linens, working in white a good deal but adding a colored pattern to the edges.

She mail-orders most of her materials because stores in this area stock yarns designed mostly for knitting. She likes to mix types of yarn for special patterns and textures she weaves into her cloth.

Some designs are easier than others. Some simple math is involved, including thread counts, to determine both size of the woven piece and design, and for drafting patterns, a skill she

Gulfport Little Theatre announces 44th season

Gulfport Little Theatre—The Gulf Coast's Community Theatre—announces its 44th season of plays and directors and a new scheduling policy for regular season productions in 1989-90.

Following GLT's summer musical fundraiser, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" June 1-4 and 8-11, and the summer children's production, GLT raises the curtain on five hit plays for the membership season, and this year will extend the run of each show to five performances instead of three.

Instead of a Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening schedule, the new format opens with evening performances on Friday and Saturday, followed by a much-requested Sunday matinee and a follow-up of Friday and Saturday evenings the following week, in response to the increased ticket demand of recent seasons.

The season opener, directed by Eddie Galey, will be Michael Brady's "To Gillian With Love On Her 37th Birthday," a touching dramatization about a widower who must deal with his mourning and his life without his beloved wife. "Gillian" runs Sept. 8-10 and 15-16.

The second season's offering is "The Musical Comedy Murders of 1940" by John Bishop, directed by Richard Glazier. Scheduled for Oct. 27-29 and Nov. 3-4, this comic romp, set to 1940 Broadway ambience, takes place at the remote estate of a Broadway "angel," where guessing the identity of the "Stage Door Slasher" keeps the third offering, a mini-musical, "Nunsense" by Dan Groggin, Dec. 1-3 and 8-9.

The Little Sisters of Hoboken "put on a show" to raise money for a very urgent cause. "Nunsense" is a current road-show hit.

GLT's fourth show continues the trend started last season of reprising a past GLT success as David Delk directs Frederick Knott's chilling "Wait Until Dark," Feb. 16-18 and 23-24.

"Wait Until Dark" pits a blind girl and her wits against three killers who are after something in her Greenwich Village apartment.

Janie Walters is the special guest director for the season's finale, Noel Coward's "Nude With Violin," Apr. 6-8 and 13-14.

Greedy "mourners," eccentrics of varying degrees, and a loyal servant gather together on the occasion of the death of a great artist, and the reading of his rather unusual last will.

Roy featured in 'Steel Magnolias'

Center Stage of Gulfport will present the first production on the Gulf Coast of Robert Harling's "Steel Magnolias," beginning Thursday, May 11, at 8 p.m.

Scheduled to run through May 21, the long-awaited comedy set in a neighborhood beauty parlor in Chinquapin, La. will be performed daily except Monday. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and 3 p.m. on Sundays.

Reservations are necessary and may be made by calling the Center Stage box office at 896-6455.

Deeply touching, yet hilarious, "Steel Magnolias," which recently had an extended run in New Orleans, is being compared with "Crimes of the Heart" in its popularity.

The Center Stage production, directed by Chuck White, stars J. Dagny Bell, Natalie Nolan

Howard, Kathryn Lewis, Ruth Ann Pecoul, Gayle Roy of Bay St. Louis and Janice Fulton Zimmer.

"Steel Magnolias" is funded in part by a grant from the Mississippi Arts Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Our Big Solution To Blocked Arteries Is Smaller Than You Think.

It's as small as a tiny beam of light. Yet its results are as big as life. It's the powerful laser used to perform angioplasty at the NorthShore Vascular Laser Center.

For patients with blocked leg arteries, laser angioplasty is an alternative to surgery. It's high technology that's as simple as inserting the tiny laser probe into the blocked vessel. Advancing it to the blockage. And vaporizing it. With the blockage cleared, a balloon can be inserted and inflated, and normal blood circulation is restored.

What are the benefits for patients? A shorter hospital stay, reduced risk, speedier recovery and less expense. The procedure is quick. Precise. And on the north shore, it's available at NorthShore Regional Medical Center.

For more information or a second opinion about this revolutionary procedure, see your physician or give us call at 641-6363. And ask us about laser angioplasty. It's just one of our big solutions to your healthcare needs.

MSU spring commencement includes six local graduates

President George Bush will deliver the commencement address May 13 at Mississippi State University.

The university holds only one commencement each year, awarding diplomas to graduates from the past year's summer term and fall semester and the spring semester of the current year. Some 2,700 graduates are eligible to receive degrees this year.

Because of the anticipated audience, the 3 p.m. program will be held at Scott Field, the football stadium. Humphrey Coliseum, the traditional commencement site, will be the alternate location in case of bad weather.

MSU President and Mrs. Donald Zacharias will be hosts for a reception for students and their families from 10-11:30 a.m. in the Colvard Union Ballroom.

Because of necessary security precautions, graduates and all others attending commencement should make plans to arrive at Scott Field at least an hour before the program begins. The program itself is scheduled to last no more than an hour.

Graduates for the 1988 summer and fall semesters were previously announced. Spring semester graduates include Laura Leigh Jackson of Mississippi State, master of science, Graduate School; Clinton G. Ladner of Starkville, bachelor of science, College of Agriculture and Home Economics; Craig Paul Orgeron of Waveland, bachelor of business administration, College of Business and Industry; George Lovell Paul of Bay St. Louis, summa cum laude, bachelor of arts, College of Arts and Sciences; and Theodore Louis Reshew of Bay St. Louis, bachelor of business administration, College of Business and Industry; and Joseph Earl Tenney of Starkville, bachelor of science, College of Engineering.

Moore-Ladner

Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church was the setting for the April 1 afternoon marriage of Karen Elizabeth Ladner and Charles Kenneth Moore Jr. A Nuptial Mass was celebrated by the Reverend Ken Ramon Landry and the Rev. Louis Lohan.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Ladner of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Moore Sr. of Moselle, Miss.

Decorating the sanctuary were Easter lilies, pink azaleas and Boston ferns.

Musical selections were presented by Mrs. John McKenna, organist, and Sandy Rhodes, vocalist, of Bay St. Louis; Larry Robinson of Moselle and Delilah Martineau of Ellisville, vocalists, cousins of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown in sheath styling with fitted bodice featuring high collar with pearl cascades at the throat, sheer yoke of English net and long tapered sleeves with cutout lace appliques. The traditional bodice was overlaid with venise lace and embroidered with seed pearls and iridescents.

The slim skirt was appliqued with lace near the scalloped hemline and cathedral train was attached at the back waist with large bow and featured hand-clipped laces embroidered with pearls and sequins.

She wore a teardrop hat with pearled illusion pouf and waist length veil.

Bridesmaids were Colleen Ladner of Picayune, sister-in-law of the bride; Rhonda Bilbo of Bay St. Louis, cousin of the bride; Mary Rayborn of Pensacola and Gina Seymour of Bay St. Louis.

The attendants were identically attired in formal gowns of aqua iridescent taffeta in princess style, each with fitted bodice, ball gown sleeves, low V-back with oversized bow at the back waist and full skirt.

They carried clutch bouquets of sonia roses, tulips, freesia, ivy and baby's breath.

Mr. Moore served as his son's best man.

Groomsmen were Ed Moore of Moselle, brother of the groom; Kevin Ladner and Greg Ladner, brothers of the bride, and Jerry Head, all of Bay St. Louis.

Ushers were Rickey Ladner of Picayune, brother of the bride; Chris Moore of Moselle, brother of the groom; and Darin Bilbo of Bay St. Louis, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Ladner chose for her daughter's wedding a two piece dress of pale aqua georgette crepe with V-neckline, flutter sleeves and fitted peplum waist marked with jeweled belt and tulip skirt.

The groom's mother was attired in a dress of peach jacquard satin with tucked bodice, jewel neckline and slim skirt featuring soft ruffles extending from the back waist to hemline.

A reception followed at the Hancock County Civic Center. Assisting were Lauren LaFontaine of Bay St. Louis; Holly Hasty of Brookhaven; Tracey Dodge of Mobile; and Brandi Hollingsworth of Moselle. Jana Phillips of Gulfport was rice girl.

Blue Jeans Garden Club

The April meeting of the Blue Jeans Garden Club was at the Diamondhead home of Joyce Hicks with Mary Danna as co-hostess.

Joyce opened the meeting with a poem, 'God's Springtime' by Elizabeth Seale Lamb.

Following the opening prayer for peace in the world, the meeting was conducted by president Dot Feaheny.

The meeting began with reports from various committee chairmen. Virginia Thomas noted that nine Blue Jean members and three guests attended the Special Olympics catfish luncheon at Stennis Space Center Wednesday, April 12.

The afternoon consisted of excellent food, live music and prizes, none of which we were lucky enough to win, and was concluded with a sightseeing tour of the center.

Another club activity report of interest was given by Feaheny who noted the club attended the Bay-Waveland Garden Club Spring Pilgrimage which was thoroughly enjoyed by the Blue Jeans who attended.

In other business, Feaheny appointed Dorothy Neubig program chairman to serve for the remainder of 1989.

Since May is the month of the Blue Jeans hat show competition, rules were reviewed by chairman Betty Klein and explained thoroughly for the benefit for newer club members.

The club's annual birthday luncheon and hat show will be Thursday, May 18 at the Diamondhead Country Club.

April winners, judged by the membership in various plant and flower categories among members only were Mattie Garcia, wild; Dot Neubig, dried; Lucille Witter, potted; Beulah Peterson, miniature; Gladys Goodloe, cultivated; and Mary Danna, horticulture.

Winner in the half and half was Aida Schaeffer, and Virginia Thomas won the door prize.

Sunscreen workshop conducted May 11 at Hancock Fairgrounds

Just as solar energy can heat your house in the winter, natural cooling methods can help keep your home cool in the summer.

Air conditioning is a major expense in summer for many people. For those who don't have air conditioners, knowledge of how to keep their house cool and comfortable in summer is even more important.

A good way to prevent the sunlight from heating the house is to keep it from going through the glass in the windows. Shading screens cut down on the sunlight before it strikes the glass. This shading device works like regular screen, except it is made of tightly woven material.

If you have unshaded east or west windows you will find that the addition of sun screens will cut the heat gain through these windows by about 60 percent, lessen the air conditioning load and make your home more comfortable.

The Hancock County Extension office is conducting a workshop for making these sunscreens Thursday, May 11 at 8:30 a.m. at the Hancock County Fairgrounds Building on Longfellow Road.

If you are interested in making sunscreens or receiving more information, contact Darlene Underwood at 467-5456 at the County Extension Office.
